Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 09 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Unsettled with rain or showers at times.

This Evening and Tonight:
A band of rain will move eastwards across many parts, clearing eastern England by dawn. Clear spells following but also blustery showers, mostly in the west where hail, thunder and hill snow are likely. Windy, with coastal gales in places.

Friday:
Cold and windy with sunny spells and blustery showers, these most frequent in the west and northwest with a risk of hail and thunder. Sunniest in the south and east.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Dry and frosty start to Saturday, but becoming wetter and milder from the west. Further rain and strong winds at times on Sunday and Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.